5.4.3 Categories of study assistance

5.4.3.1 There are three categories of study assistance that determine the level of financial assistance and/or leave available to staff:

- Category A applies where a staff member is required to enrol in a particular program as a condition of their employment. This condition will be explicitly stated in the staff member's written offer of appointment or other formal correspondence.
- Category B applies where the program of study will directly contribute to the staff member's performance of duties and is consistent with the qualifications and training level reflected in the classification standards of their substantive position or anticipated future duties at the University.
- Category C applies where the program of study will generally contribute to the staff member's performance in their substantive position or contribute, by being relevant to other positions in the University, to the continuing development of the individual staff member.

6. Responsibilities

6.1 The University encourages staff to participate in relevant staff development activities, including study assistance, and recognises that responsibility for development lies jointly with individual staff and the University:

- (a) each individual staff member is encouraged to take ultimate responsibility for their own career development and to seek and take advantage of relevant opportunities for development, such as study assistance;
- (b) Cost Centre Managers are to: ensure the universal implementation of Performance Planning and Review within their Cost Centre and encourage discussion about applying for study assistance when relevant to a staff member's development; plan for resourcing appropriate staff development; and allocate resources so that staff are able to participate in relevant staff development activities, such as formal study;
- (c) Human Resources is to: prepare correspondence to staff to formalise approval of study assistance; and monitor and report on participation in study for which study assistance has been provided; and
- (d) the University is responsible for creating a positive and stimulating environment in which staff are able to achieve success in their work. Study assistance is a means of investing in the development of staff to enhance their capabilities and contribute to increased organisational effectiveness.
